Welcome to CHESTER COUNTY

The board of directors and staff of the Henderson/Chester County Chamber of Commerce welcome you to Henderson and Chester County, Tennessee! As the largest business organization in our county, we are honored to share the great story of our community and businesses with visitors, members and residents in the area.

The Henderson/Chester County Chamber of Commerce was established in 1976; for more than 40 years we have been celebrating our outstanding businesses and industries, strong educators and committed residents, who take great pride in their hometown. We hope as you look through the pages of this ninth edition of Discover Chester County Magazine, you'll learn even more about our county's great strengths and assets.

Henderson's downtown has a rich history rooted in the beginnings of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, and our charming downtown continues to grow and prosper. In Henderson, guests and residents will find the reliability and speed of gigabit fiber, unique shops, famous restaurants, Freed-Hardeman University and even a peaceful downtown park that offers free Wi-Fi with picnic tables and beautiful landscaping. You also can find a thriving arts community on the third Thursday of each month March through August (and fourth Thursday in September) at the Henderson Arts Commission's Arts in the Alley in Downtown Park.

If you want to spend some time in the great outdoors, Chickasaw State Park offers hiking trails, canoes, paddle boards, horseback riding, camping and serene beauty that naturally draws people. Gene Record Park in Henderson is a beautiful, green gathering place for walkers, joggers, soccer players, families and students.

On the last weekend of September, you will want to find your way to downtown Henderson, where you will be greeted by the smoky sweet smell of our famous BBQ! This year we will be celebrating 40 years of the Chester County BBQ Festival. Be part of this anniversary event, and enjoy our tasty BBQ, chicken, ribs, fried treats, outstanding entertainment, hot air balloon rides and tons of fun!

Our 2017 magazine highlights some of what makes our community unique — a thriving Farmers Market and exquisite parks, top-rated schools, businesses driven by people who are passionate about their work and a thriving theater and arts community.

Welcome to our hometown! Please stay awhile and come back often. It won't take long to find out why Chester County is a great place to live, work and play!

Henderson Farmers Market is a Friday morning ritual for residents who want to buy fresh and stay close to home. Since the ribbon cutting ceremony May 26, a line of cars is often outside of the pavilion located at 455 N. Church Ave. Chester County residents have longed for a local farmers market since the pavilion was built several years ago.

"We built the pavilion through a grant, but Steve Rickman's passion and work made it take off," Henderson Mayor Bobby King said.

The farmers market is one of the first projects University of Tennessee Agriculture Extension Agent Steve Rickman tackled a few months into his new role.

"I wanted to know how we could make a market work," Rickman said. "I went to city meetings, talked to vendors and raised money for advertising, and the city supported it."

In the two months since the market opened, vendor participation and customers have increased — averaging 1,000 to 1,100 customers and growing from 13 to 25 vendors.

A variety of vendors give shoppers options, including fresh Gulf shrimp, pork, chicken, beef, strawberries, sweet corn, tomatoes and baked goods.

"We've had everything from honey vendors, who sold out early, to Ruxbee's homemade ice cream," Rickman said. "We had a group come from Selmer just to buy the ice cream."

Chester County High School student Sam Phillips and his mom, Gaye, sold Friendship Bread at the Henderson Market in July. "He's doing it all, buying the ingredients and we work together to make it," Gaye Phillips said. They've sold about 40 loaves a week. Sam Phillips is raising money to buy a four-wheeler. "I know I have to work to get the things I want," he said.

TN-GO Meats, of Milledgeville, has been a vendor at the Henderson Farmers Market since its opening day May 26. "Steve's done a phenomenal job putting this market together," Owner Sabra Schmidt said. "Some days we do better in Henderson than we do in Jackson."

The market's customers are from Chester and neighboring counties. Rebecca McLaughlin, of Bethel Springs, shops regularly at Henderson Farmers Market.

"I'm usually looking for fresh eggs, green beans and tomatoes," she said. McLaughlin was drawn to the market after seeing advertisements. "I rarely go to other markets, since this is so close."

Mary Duke, of Lexington, stopped by the market in July after hearing about it.

"It's nice, and I think they've done a good job," she said. "I know Henderson wanted a market before, so I'm glad they have one now." Duke is a gardener and is considering becoming a vendor next year.

The Farmers Market is open from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. Fridays and will remain open through October and possibly once a month in November and December. "There are so many ideas we want to try, like a Friday night market from 4 until 8 p.m. with entertainment," Rickman said. "We also want to do something educational involving the schools."

State Recognition / LOCAL IMPACT

WRITTEN BY: MELANIE DAVIS

At the heart of any strong educational system are the teachers who give their best to students each day. They make the most of the time that they have by not only imparting knowledge but also loving their students. The Chester County School District is full of teachers who are committed to that mission.

"Two years ago, I had a student who would never return a hug or an 'I love you' when leaving school each day," Hayley Cloud, Chester County teacher, said. "At the beginning of the school year, this student in particular would simply walk past me and ignore me as I went through this afternoon routine. By December, she began to return a hug and whisper 'I love you too' in my ear. However, she didn't want her classmates to hear her say it. By March, the little girl would hug me as tight as she could and give me a big 'I love you' just as loud and proud as she could. That moment made me a better teacher because it helped me see that relationships are everything."

Cloud is this year's Regional Teacher of the Year for grades Pre-K to fourth grade. This award is a part of the Tennessee Teacher of the Year program held by the state each year.

She has taught in Chester County for six years and is yet another example of the county's commitment to excellence in education.

"Hayley Cloud is one of the Chester County teachers who provides the evidence for the public respect of our school district considered as one of the best in the state. Hayley has been at West Chester Elementary School as a third-grade teacher since 2012 and, in her short tenure, has developed into a highly effective teacher. Hayley has demonstrated multiple strengths of knowledge, use of curriculum and strong pedagogical strategies to engage her students in high levels of learning," said Superintendent Troy Kilzer II.

Chester County Director of Schools Troy Kilzer II is among eight finalists for Superintendent of the Year award on the state level. The winner of the competition, sponsored by the American Association of School Administrators, will move on to the national level.

"Being nominated by my colleagues is the honor," Kilzer said. "They understand the work you have in front of you."

Kilzer began his career in education as a math teacher and football coach before he became principal of Chester County High School. This is his fourth year as director of schools.

"I treat every opportunity as a learning experience, and I'm excited to have this honor coming out of my first term. I'll cherish it forever."

The Chester County School System has had teachers nominated for the Tennessee Teacher of the Year program for three consecutive years. Two years ago, Cathy Whitehead, from West Chester Elementary was named Teacher of the Year, and last year Christy McManus from Chester County Middle School was one of nine finalists for the award. Cloud, Whitehead and McManus each exhibit a strong commitment to their students and a passion for continued learning and professional growth, which are key ingredients for a healthy school system.

Chester County schools continue to thrive because of the people who are a part of them. The work of everyone from superintendent to student is what makes the Chester County School District great.

BUSINESS* SPOTLIGHTS

EDITOR'S NOTE

We asked many people questions about their business and their experience in Chester County. We received replies from four of them, and excerpts from their answers follow. We feature different business in Discover Chester County each year. Many of those featured have held ribbon cuttings during the past year or are new members of the Henderson/Chester County Chamber of Commerce.

HENDERSON FLORIST & GIFT SHOP

Dana and Rick Hopper, owners
Opened November 2016

What services does your business offer?

"We do fresh flowers for all occasions – things like funerals, birthdays and anniversaries. We also do silk arrangements, we have a selection of gifts, and we also do green plants."

Where did you work before you opened your business?

"I worked for years at Four-Way Flower Shop for years before it closed. Now I get to see those customers again and most people try to shop local if they can."

What is your favorite thing about running a business in Chester County?

"The people – they're very nice and just like family in my hometown."

How has the small-town atmosphere of Chester County benefited your business?

"A lot because it is all about word of mouth, and most of my business has come from that. Everyone has been nice in helping us get started. Friends and family have really pulled for us and everything has been because of the people. My niece, Katie Bell, has really helped out a lot in the shop."

How has being a member of the Chamber helped your new business?

"The chamber has helped keep us connected to Chester County, and it's kind of like a little family. They have the scoop on the new businesses opening. We find out about sales, specials and receive their newsletter. They're very supportive, helpful and provide a lot of information."

FARM CREDIT MID-AMERICA – KELLI GRICE

731.784.3160 | kelli.grice@e-farmcredit.com

How and when did you start your business?

"In 2016, Farm Credit marked the 100th year since it was established as a national network of borrower-owned financial cooperatives with the mission of supporting rural communities and agriculture with the financing they need to succeed and thrive."

What are some of the services you offer?

"Farm Credit Mid-America is an agricultural lending cooperative owned and controlled by our customers. We are one of the largest associations within the Farm Credit System. We make farm real estate, operating and equipment loans. We also make home loans. At Farm Credit Mid-America, unique, rural properties are the loans we deal with every day. Loans that cover large lots, barns, log homes, part-time farms, horse barns and more. In fact, the more unique the property is, the more we can do to help streamline the loan process. In addition to loans, we also offer crop insurance and building and farm equipment leasing."

How has your business benefited by being a member of the Chester County Chamber of Commerce?

"Being a member of the Chamber has provided opportunities for growth, both professionally and individually. The organization creates networking opportunities, promotion and publicity. It increases our visibility in the area and opens the doors for referrals. We are able to give back to the Chester County and Henderson community by being more involved in area events."

Has your business made any additions or changes recently?

"The most recent change to our organization includes the specialization of our retail offices and employees. We have our agricultural professionals, i.e. financial officers, account specialists and closing specialists. We also have our consumer market professionals, i.e. consumer loan officers and country home loan specialists. One of the most valuable benefits of being a Farm Credit customer is our loan conversion program. When interest rates or circumstances change, our members can convert their existing loans to a lower or more secure rate."

GATELY COLLISION

731.608.4576

Allen Gately, owner
Opened in 2015

What's unique about running a business in Chester County?

"The chamber has helped me with advertising. If it weren't for the community, I wouldn't be here for sure. I'm thankful for all of the support and customer referrals."

AMERICAN PIE CAFE

731.989.0346

Judy Bunetta, owner
Opened December 2014

What's unique about running a business in Chester County?

"I like knowing most of the customers. The regulars are like family. Many people do most of their shopping in Chester County because they value small, local businesses. Right before I opened, Joe Delay was a lot of help. Freed-Hardeman was out for winter break, and he made flyers, window signs and helped promote my business. He was here every day, so I named a sandwich after him — The Joe Delay Special, which is a Reuben with a dessert of choice."

Seger Morris, DO
Ginger Maness, FNP
Opened November 2016

Describe the services that your business offers?

"Rejuvenate offers a unique weight loss program, wellness programs, hormone replacement therapy, massage therapy, facial aesthetics (such as BOTOX®) and laser treatments (hair removal, skin rejuvenation, etc.)."

What made you start your business?

"Prevention of disease is at the core of our philosophy, and we thought we could use our education, training and passions to bring services to rural Tennessee that would allow people to improve their well-being. While physical imperfections are what make us unique, some physical insecurities – whether it be weight, excess hair, unsightly scarring, effects of aging or others – can lead to significant harm. This can manifest as obesity, depression and other conditions that lead to significant and tragic diseases – and even death – throughout our country. Unfortunately, Tennessee, Mississippi, and much of the Deep South have some of the highest rates of obesity, depression and associated diseases in the country – and we wanted to make a difference. Our philosophy is that everyone should make a personal investment to prevent harmful and unhealthy consequences."

What is your favorite thing about running a business in Chester County?

"We love the small town charm of Henderson and have a big vision for the future of our business and town."

40 years of BBQ

HENDERSON, TENNESSEE

PIGGIN' OUT AT THE
CHESTER COUNTY
BARBEQUE

WRITTEN BY: TAJUANA CHESHIER

The Chester County BBQ Festival has been a staple in the community for generations.

It all started with the Jaycees, a civic group no longer in the area, and a whole hog on a smoker.

The festival has transformed throughout the years – moving from July to September, a single day to three days and eventually becoming a two-day event.

“It took us about seven or eight years before it became a festival,” Craig Casey said. “The late Wanda Smith owned a radio station and helped bring in music, food, people and vendors.”

Casey has been one of the festival's volunteers since its inception, watching attendance grow from hundreds to 10,000 during the weekend.

"Once you've worked the BBQ festival, I don't know why anyone would want to live anywhere else," he said.

Randy Crouse became a volunteer in the late 1980s. Casey and Crouse have spent countless hours in the BBQ pit together.

"We've worked all night and then all day," Crouse said. "When the festival moved from July to September, we were worried it would kill the festival, but it was the smartest move that we ever made."

The camaraderie among the volunteers keeps them returning year after year. "It's a lot of work and a lot of fun," Crouse said.

MAKING STRIDES IN HEALTHY LIVING - GENE RECORD MEMORIAL PARK

WRITTEN BY: TAJUANA CHESHIER

Try to keep up with all of the improvements around Gene Record Park, and you could literally break into a sweat.

This past spring frequent visitors likely noticed new exercise equipment — an elliptical machine, leg extension, a stationary bike and a two-person chair press — positioned along the walking trail in addition to a multi-colored bottle wall, new drinking fountain and new flower bed of lilies. On the north side of the park across from the soccer field, a sign announces the Chester T Dog Park area, set to break ground this fall. A new community feature that is also part of the effort to promote health and wellness in the community is the Henderson Farmers Market located next to the park.

All of the updates are a reflection of how community leaders are working to ensure Henderson and Chester County residents can live healthier lives — whether by starting a new exercise routine or choosing to purchase fresh fruit and vegetables from the local farmers market. Chester County's efforts to improve residents' quality of life earned the community a top spot in a recent health study. The county is ranked 11th out of 95 Tennessee counties for health outcomes, which measures longevity and how healthy people feel. The county health ranking study was released in late March and is conducted annually by the University of Wisconsin Population Health Institute School of Medicine and Public Health.

OUTDOOR GYM

Just before the summer sun hit its peak in late July, Tauzzia Beatty was in the middle of her daily three-mile walk in Gene Record Park. Beatty has tried the park's new exercise equipment and affectionately refers to Gene Record as "my park."

"I've used the equipment a few times, and it's easy," Beatty said. "There aren't too many parks where you can find gym equipment outside." Beatty often brings her sons to the park to play while she exercises.

New to exercising, Scott Coates has yet to try out the new equipment. "Someday, I will though," he said. "My health insurance through my job has this program called 'Choose To Move,' and I'm working on it," Coates said.

Henderson Park Director Dena Azevedo said the gym equipment has attracted users. "People feel free to use at their own pace and time," she said. "We also check the equipment regularly to make sure it's functioning properly." An average of 150 people visit the park daily, Azevedo said.

A $10,000 Rural Access to Health and Healthy Built Environments from the Tennessee Department of Health helped to make the installation possible. Greenfields Outdoor Fitness equipment is secured in concrete and provides user instructions on the machines.

FINDING BEAUTY

Azevedo and her team work tirelessly on beautification projects. "I think the park has come a long way in four years," Azevedo said. "It has become a place for people across all generations to come together, meet or take photos."

Visitors will discover the park's new bottle wall along the walking trail, located in between the elliptical machine and the leg extension. It is a decorative and colorful display of glass bottles suspended in mid-air. A bed of lilies is positioned on the ground near the wall. Azevedo plans to add more lilies, which will make more than 200 in the park.

A PLACE FOR THE PUPS

Construction on the Chester T Dog Park inside Gene Record will begin this fall. The designated area will be for dogs to romp, run and play. Chester T is the dog of the late Lynn Ramey, a local resident. Ramey was a true dog lover, according to Teresa King. King is the wife of Mayor Bobby King and one of the organizers of the project. Planning began two years ago.

"Lynn had such a passion for animals; we felt the best way to honor her and the healthy lifestyle the city is trying to promote was to create this park for animals," Teresa said.

Plans for the pet area include waste, feeding and watering stations, exercise area, benches and vaccination and rescue programs. Construction will cost $15,000 and organizers are waiting on grant funding and are collecting private donations.

"I'm retired, and since our children are grown, our pets are an important part of our lives," Teresa said.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Community support and donations continue to provide new ventures for Gene Record Park. In late 2016, A1 Pools & Spa donated a new drinking fountain. Other donations include the lilies planted throughout the park and a sunshade placed over one of the park's benches. "My guys are really great. If I have an idea, they will figure out a way to make it happen," Azevedo said. Gene Record Park is being equipped with Wi-Fi, joining Henderson's Downtown Park as a hotspot location.

Gene Record Memorial Park opened in May 1993, named after the former mayor who worked to create it. It has soccer fields, a walking trail, a children's play area and pavilions.

Local leaders, residents and Azevedo are leading the charge to keep up the momentum. "We'd like to install lighting, replace older playground equipment, add an amphitheater and a splash pad," Azevedo said. "With more diverse activities, park usage will continue to increase."

CCHS HEALTH COUNCIL

A SUCCESSFUL YEAR INCLUDES A NEW NEST, AWARDS AND COMMUNITY IMPACT

Eagles' Edge is the new home for Chester County High School's Health Council and is 4,500 square feet of space for meetings, team-building activities and in-service training.

"The move is a major upgrade for us," Heather Griffin said. "We have more space than we've ever had, and we'll be able to accommodate our growing council." Griffin is the health and nutrition coordinator for the school system. This spring Griffin won the Coordinator of the Year Award for the Southwest region. Southwest Regional Consultant Annette Wilson nominated Griffin. "Heather and her assistant, Amy (Eads), have really done some amazing things with the health council. She coordinates a health fair that serves the entire community. They are rooted in the community, and I'm so impressed by the work they do," Wilson said.

To complete the Eagles' Edge remodel, the Chester County School Board and director of schools, the Henderson/Chester County Chamber of Commerce Leadership Class, Freed-Hardeman University and several local businesses volunteered hours, materials and resources.

"The Eagles' Edge happened because of their trust and support given to us. They were really involved, and we're so appreciative for them," Griffin said.

The new space includes a room for school uniforms to help students in need, a full-size kitchen and a recreational and meeting room with a ping-pong table. Health council member Noah Griffin volunteered during the six-month remodel. "I did some painting and work in the yard," Griffin, a sophomore, said. "It's mind-blowing to see the finished work and how it all progressed."

During the school year, members of the council filmed a video for an anti-tobacco campaign and spread kindness by leaving positive notes around the school and on car windshields. "My favorite thing this year was filming the anti-smoking video and meeting different people," Sam Phillips, a sophomore, said. Senior, Brennan Phelps believes the council's agenda spreads positivity. "I feel like the council helps students feel better about themselves," he said.

The Student Health Council began in 2008 to promote five areas of total personal fitness: mental, physical, social, emotional and spiritual. Students are selected to participate based on teacher recommendations. Eagles' Edge is open 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ARTS in the alley

The Henderson Arts Commission will recognize, educate, enrich and entertain through the arts in Henderson, Chester County and the surrounding area.

A Whole New World

WRITTEN BY: TAJUANA CHESHER

The Aladdin Experience Summer camp found its groove this year with a two-week program that offered local students the opportunity to forge strong bonds of friendship and learn the value of teamwork all while having a great time.

The camp grew in enrollment — from 24 to 40 students — and more than doubled attendance during two evening performances. More than 850 people viewed “Aladdin” in Freed-Hardeman University’s Loyd Auditorium. Eighteen corporate sponsorships and ticket sales raised $5,100, benefiting elementary arts in Chester County. This built on $2,200 raised during the inaugural one-night performance of The Lion King last year. The show’s director, Becky Hartle, said the success of this year’s play created interest in a fall production for Chester County Middle School students. Hartle will direct “Law and Order: The Fairy Tale Unit.”

She expects many students from the summer will audition for the fall production. “I think they want to participate because they miss the bond that we created in the summer,” Hartle said.

In Chester County, we love barbecue so much we not only eat it for lunch and supper on a regular basis, we also celebrate it with a weekend festival near the end of September. First held in 1978, the festival is the perfect way to end summer and look toward fall. The smell of hickory smoke draws locals, university students and visitors to Main Street for fun, food and fellowship.

By the sandwich or by the shoulder, you can get your fill of pork slow-cooked over an open pit and sold on the courthouse lawn. You can also shop, enjoy some hometown entertainment and eat any number of other festival delicacies. But, make no mistake about it, barbecue is the star of the show!
